NEW FROM ZERO TO THREE...Case Studies in Infant Mental Health: Risk Resiliency, and Relationships

Since 1977, ZERO TO THREE has championed the sharing of detailed case studies as a way to learn and improve practice, believing that

We learn most from those we serve and from others who share that experience with us.

We are pleased to continue that rich tradition by publishing this exemplary volume of detailed and diverse case studies. After briefly documenting the history of infant mental health as originally conceived by Selma Fraiberg, Case Studies in Infant Mental Health offers 12 real-life stories written by infant mental health specialists about their work with a young child and family. Each case study also reveals the supervision and consultation that supported the specialist, and the specialist's interaction with the larger service system. Discussion questions at the end of each case study are designed to guide self-reflection or group study.

An excellent resource for trainers, educators, practitioners, and students.

Joan J. Shirilla and
Deborah J. Weatherston,
Editors

Praise for Case Studies in Infant Mental Health

"This book conveys vividly the excitement, the complexity, and the sheer wonder of infant mental health at its best."

– Alicia F. Lieberman, Ph.D. University of California, San Francisco

"[A]n extraordinary piece of work! The process of "holding" another in one's mind has never been so richly shared."

– Gambi White-Tennant, M.S.Ed., New York University Head Start Quality Improvement Center

"Case Studies in Infant Mental Health offers a wonderfully rich text for work with graduate students and professionals – a powerful tool for training discussions, supervisory and consultative work."

– Maxine Freund, Ed.D., George Washington University
